Royal Swedish Academy of Fine Arts, Stockholm, 22-25 February 2007

PRESS RELEASE

13 September 2006

30 leading Nordic galleries to MARKET for second year in a row

MARKET, the Nordic fair for contemporary art, will open at the Royal Swedish Academy of Fine Arts in central Stockholm from 22-25 February 2007. Thirty carefully selected galleries from the Nordic region will show local and international contemporary art. One of MARKET's goals for 2007 is to further strengthen the presence of galleries from other Nordic countries. MARKET is therefore pleased to welcome several leading galleries from our neighboring countries.

The Fair

Preparations for MARKET 2007 are in full swing following the successful launch of the fair in February of this year. The art public's appreciation for a high quality, centrally located Stockholm fair was evident in both the numerous visitors and the media attention attracted this year. MARKET puts Swedish and Nordic galleries in the spotlight and participating galleries show a wide selection of the most exciting in contemporary art. MARKET is proud of its relationship with the distinguished Royal Swedish Academy of Fine Arts and the choice of venue gives the fair its unique character.

Goal and vision

MARKET's primary goal is to create the best possible meeting place for galleries and the art-interested public. The fair's vision is to be the Nordic art scene's foremost fair for high quality art. For 2007 the goal has been to increase participation from our neighboring Nordic countries. Five of the 30 selected galleries are non-Swedish, compared to last year's three.

"We are particularly pleased that two strong Danish galleries with differing profiles – Nils Staerk and Mogadishni – applied to MARKET this year. We are also glad to once again welcome Galerie Anhava from Helsinki, Galleri Bo Bjerggaard from Copenhagen and Galleri Riis from Oslo and are proud that MARKET has again attracted the leading Swedish galleries," says Cecilia Hillström, project manager for MARKET.

Background

MARKET took place for the first time in February 2006 at the initiative of a group of galleries aiming to create a high quality art fair in Stockholm. The exceptionally positive reception from both galleries and the public made a continuation self-evident. MARKET now plans to be an annual event and dates are already booked for the next two years.
